GREEKS THINK WAR OFFICE IS HIDING NEWS FROM FRONT

Uneasiness In Athens Over Infrequent Bulletins

WOUNDED ARRIVE

Reports Current Of Important Cabinet Changes

(Reuter's Service)

Athens, September 3.—The evacuation of Eski-Shehr is the only official news of the fighting in Asia Minor available up to the present. A number of wounded have arrived and hospitals are being promptly organised. Uneasiness prevails owing to the laconical and infrequent Greek communiques and it is felt that very important events are impending. Reports of Ministerial changes are current but, nevertheless, the general public remains calm and special measures for the maintenance of order seem unnecessary.

Paris, September 3.—Summing up the results of the big battle in Anatolia, an Angora communique claims that the offensive in the Afiun-Karahissar sector after being pressed uninterruptedly for five days ended in the defeat of the bulk of the Greek army, which was split into two.

The Northern army was completely destroyed and dispersed, while the Southern army suffered severe setbacks in the Tulubunar sector and is retreating towards Ushak.

Large quantities of war material and 150 guns of all calibres were captured.

It adds that Kutaya and Kedoz have been occupied by the Turks.

Athens, September 3.—An official communique issued today admits the evacuation of Eskishehr.

Athens, September 3.—A semi-official statement admits that the Turks have advanced 90 to 100 miles but it declares that they are unable to continue to advance owing to lack of communications. It denies the capture of Eskishehr.

London, Sept. 3.—According to Turkish reports from Angora the Turkish troops are advancing on all fronts.

London, September, 2.—News of the operations in Asia Minor continues meagre and vague but apparently the Kemalist offensive at present has spent much of its force without achieving its object of outflanking the Greek main body and threatening Brusa. It has, however, compelled the Greeks to retreat to the Usbak line between Afiun Karahissar and Smyrna, all of which objectives have been mentioned in recent despatches from Constantinople. The latter indicate that the Turks, at the commencement of the attack, outnumbered the 30,000 Greeks on the Afiun-Karahissar front by about 10,000 and were exceedingly ably led and well supplied, especially with artillery and automobiles. Their losses are alleged by both Athens and Constantinople to be heavy and it is doubtful whether Mustapha Kemal will be able to form a third army to operate in the direction of the Straits as Constantinople credits him with the intention of doing.

A message from Athens states that the whole Greek army has been ordered to concentrate on the Ushak line where there are strong mountain positions covering the railways to Smyrna where it is hoped that the Kemalist advance will be arrested.

The Ministers of War and the Interior have returned to Athens from Smyrna and reported to the Cabinet, according to the newspapers, that they consider the situation dangerous and critical. They state that the Greek retirement is proceeding without serious pressure and that the Greek losses are slight compared with those of the Kemalists.

Alexander H. Ford Here To Interest Chinese In Pacific Commercial Confab

Director Of Pan-Pacific Union Says Nations Ready To Co-operate With Republic; Wants Strong Delegation From China

Mr. Alexander Hume Ford, director of the Pan-Pacific Union who arrived here on Sunday on the President Cleveland in the interest of the Pan-Pacific Commercial Conference, was the guest of honor at a tiffin held yesterday by leading Chinese and American merchants at the Union Club. Mr. Yang Tcheng, director of the local Pan-Pacific Association, presided and speeches were delivered by the guest of honor, Mr. H. Y. Moh, who heads the Chinese delegation to the Commercial Conference and Mr. Julean Arnold, United States Commercial Attache.

In introducing Mr. Ford, Mr. Yang referred to the untiring efforts of the guest of honor in promoting better understanding among the nations bordering the Pacific and in arousing greater interest in the commercial, educational and social developments of the Pacific countries. He then welcomed Mr. Ford in the name of the Pan-Pacific Association of China.

After reviewing the successful accomplishments of the various conferences held in Honolulu by the Pacific countries on education, science and journalism, Mr. Ford made an eloquent appeal for a large Chinese delegation at the coming Pan-Pacific Commercial Conference.

"Japan is sending 15 delegates to the conference," said he in part. "While I do not as yet know how many you are sending, I do not want to see the Chinese swamped by them. About 100 good American business men are coming. Of these between 60 and 65 are leaders in their own lines. Big bankers, radio-executives, and captains of industry will participate in the discussions.

HOOVER HAS MESSAGE

"Mr. Hoover, the secretary of Commerce, will probably write a paper on 'Conscience in Commerce,' which will be read at the conference. Good papers on commercial questions are being prepared by Chambers of Commerce up and down the Pacific Coast of America.

"We want China to come in and come in big. The Pacific countries want your co-operation. We will co-operate with you. We don't want to run your country, but we are ready to help you when you need us. Please do send us 15 delegates and at least place yourself on equal footing with the Japanese.

"If China will take the upper trend, all the Pacific countries would co-operate, because they know they will be richer. Mr. Julean Arnold has given us the encouragement and we know from his books that if China is developed all the Pacific countries will be benefited. There will be an increase of purchasing power and a general business boom. We are a family. Franklin K. Lane, Senator Lodge and President Wilson all believe that there is a better chance for a real league of nations in the Pacific.

HONOLULU IS FREE

"Honolulu, free from political and social entanglement, is the best place for the getting together. Here you have a cosmopolitan atmosphere in which to deliberate over important problems of the Pacific."

The speaker then went into detail of how some of the meetings were arranged so that people of antagonistic attitude were brought together and made to forget their differences for the moment, to air their grievances, to find a solution and to part with one another the best of friends. He mentioned specific instances of where Japanese,

RULING IN HOTEL CASE MAY AFFECT CONSULAR COURTS

Habeas Corpus Proceedings Grow Out Of Conviction Of Hannigs At Tientsin

Habeas corpus proceedings filed yesterday in the United States Court for China by Mr. H. D. Rodger of Rodger & Haskell reopens a case that was locally celebrated in Tientsin and was a news topic all through China some months ago—the case of Charles W. Hannigs, at one time manager of the Astor House at Tientsin and a hotel man well-known through all the Far East.

As is set forth in the proceedings opened yesterday Mr. Hannigs was convicted on a charge of assault in the American Consular Court at Tientsin in November of last year. Decision in the case was given by Mr. Stuart J. Fuller, American Consul-General at Tientsin, who imposed a fine of $50 and a prison sentence of 30 days. The complainant in the case was a Chinese who had been employed by Hannigs and who alleged Hannigs had attacked him. Efforts that Hannigs made to escape the prison sentence were unavailing, but the Consular court said the prison sentence would be suspended if Hannigs left China and it is stated that by reason of this decision he has been barred from Tientsin.

If an important point that is raised in the habeas corpus proceedings is sustained it will have a far-reaching effect as it will bar American consular officials throughout China from imposing sentences in assault cases in future. The contention advanced is that under the Act of Congress of June 30, 1906 defining juridicial powers of consuls to China their jurisdiction is limited and covers only civil cases involving the sum of $500 or less or in criminal cases providing fines up to $100 and prison sentences up to 60 days.

The petition filed in the United States Court for China sets forth that the American federal statute covering assault provides for a maximum penalty of a fine of $500 or six months imprisonment or both and it is held therefore

BOYD FREE ON MINT CHARGE, NOW HELD AS JAIL BREAKER

Evidence In Swindling Case Is Insufficient

UNDER $500 BOND

No "Written Proof" Of Guilt In Copper Case, Ruling

Ralph S. Boyd, head of the various Boyd commercial enterprises which were conducted from offices in the Glen Line building, was acquitted yesterday in a ruling handed down by Judge C. S. Lobingier in the United States Court for China of charges of obtaining Tls. 30,000 by false pretenses from General Chang at the time General Chang was director of the Provincial Mint of Hunan. The decision comes after a protracted trial in the United States Court for China in which the Government's case was conducted by Mr. Leonard G. Husar while Mr. R. S. Haskell of Rodger and Haskell appeared for the defense.

Though Boyd was acquitted in this major criminal case he was kept in custody yesterday, having been held recently to face a charge of jail breaking. Boyd was the prisoner who participated in the sensational jail break that was engineered by David Lightner, fugitive from Portland, Oregon, who was arrested here on charges of violation of American narcotic laws for which he was wanted back in Oregon.

Lightner and Boyd, according to official records of the case, cut their way through the ceiling of the American jail and after clambering over the roof of the building succeeded in climbing through a window into living quarters of an official from which they were able to descend to the street. Although Lightner eluded pursuit in China for several weeks to be recaptured at length at sea on the steamer West Faralon when it was bound from Shanghai to San Diego, Boyd was retaken seven hours after the escape when he was traced to a private yacht at Pootung on which he was found asleep in a bunk.

This forms the basis of the charge of jail breaking that he still has to face. His bail in connection with this charge was fixed in the sum of $500 and his attorney intimated yesterday that this will be supplied.

The basis of the charge on which Boyd was tried yesterday was a deal for a considerable quantity of copper which Boyd undertook to supply to the Hunan mint. It was alleged that through false representations Boyd closed a contract for delivery of the copper and accepted from General Chang a deposit of Tls. 30,000 which has never been returned.

COURT'S DECISION

The text of Judge Lobingier's decision freeing Boyd of this charge is as follows:

The information in this cause charges that the defendant

"on or about the 14th day of Feb., A. D. 1922, at the city of Shanghai, Republic of China, and within the jurisdiction of the above named court, and before the filing of this information, with intent to defraud the provincial mint of Hunan province of its property, did, unlawfully, knowingly, and designedly, falsely and feloniously represent and pretend to one, Chang Yi-pong, then and there Director of said provincial mint of Hunan province and then and there the legally authorised agent of said provincial mint of Hunan province to transact all of its business, that he, the said Ralph S. Boyd and the R. S. Boyd and Co., Ltd., of which he was President, had twenty thousand (20,000) piculs of Copper Ingots belonging to him and said R. S. Boyd and Co., Ltd., and which were then and there stored in a godown or warehouse in the city of Shanghai and ready for immediate shipment and delivery; and the said Chang Yi-pong, then and there believing said false pretences and representations and being deceived thereby, was induced by reason of such false pretences and representations so made as aforesaid by the said Ralph S. Boyd,

CLEVELAND HERE, NONE THE WORSE FOR HITTING BAR

Pacific Mail Liner May Go Out Tomorrow; McKinley In Today

The big Pacific Mail liner President Cleveland, none the worse for her experience, docked at the China Merchants' Central Wharf yesterday noon after being refloated from Tungsha Spit, where she went aground last Friday night. It is expected that the Cleveland will be able to sail for Manila and Hongkong tomorrow and will be back to her regular time schedule before she gets to San Francisco on the homeward trip.

Passengers aboard the President Cleveland, together with Shanghai mails, were brought up to the city Sunday afternoon and the ship was floated off the mud bank Sunday night without incident. Passengers arriving here were eloquent in their praise of Captain G. W. Yardley, of the Cleveland, for his handling of the situation following the grounding of the vessel as well as previously during the storm which swept Shanghai last Thursday and which delayed the ship's arrival.

The Cleveland was given a thorough going over after she docked yesterday and appeared not to have suffered any damage of material sort through the accident. There was some sand in the pumps and this is being cleaned out, but otherwise the machinery was in good working order.

Another large mail from America, 1,140 sacks, and a full passenger list are being brought to Shanghai today by the Admiral Line steamer President McKinley, which is due to berth at the China Merchants' Lower Wharf at 2 p.m. The President McKinley will sail for Hongkong and Manila at 11 a.m. Thursday.

The China Mail steamer China, which arrived yesterday from San Francisco, Honolulu and Japan ports, sails for Hongkong direct from the China Merchants' Lower Wharf at 9 o'clock this morning.

Following the McKinley, the next mail from America is due on the Empress of Canada late Friday or early Saturday morning.

Mail for America will be dispatched on the President Madison of the Admiral Line next Sunday. The Madison is due to arrive in Seattle by way of Kobe and Yokohama on September 26.

The Empress of Asia is due to sail from Woosung next Saturday and arrives at Vancouver on September 25.

Cooperage Firm Puts Through Big Timber Merger

Word Received Here Of Deal By Western Cooperage Company

Mr. William W. Eastman, Eastern manager of the Western Cooperage Company, with headquarters in Shanghai, yesterday received word that his company has just effected one of the largest timber mergers recorded in America in the last twenty years.

Details of the deal are given in the following account, from the Portland, Oregon, telegram:

Another signal of the early approach of intensified development of the timber resources of Northwestern Oregon is seen in the consolidation of the holdings of three of the foremost timber owning corporations. These holdings cover practically all of township 6 north, range 7 west, in Clatsop county, about forty miles northwesterly from Portland, and the stand of timber thereon is approximately 1,000,000,000 feet, mostly Douglas fir of first grade, with considerable percentages of spruce and cedar and a small amount of hemlock.

According to announcement at the office of the Western Cooperage company, in the Northwestern Bank building in order to facilitate further logging operations the Wright-Blodgett Co., Ltd., the Merrill Lumber company and the Western Cooperage company have merged their timber holdings in this township. The result of the consolidation is one of the largest and most compact timber holdings in Clatsop county.

The consolidation will be known as the Tidewater Timber company, incorporated under the laws of Michigan and with principal office in Portland. It has an authorised capital of $4,000,000, of which $3,500,000 has been paid in in property and cash.

Besides the timber, the merger includes the Astoria Southern railway, owned by the Western Cooperage company and extending from the timber to rafting grounds on Young's river. This logging railroad is approximately eleven miles in length and is now hauling logs from operations adjacent to the consolidated holdings of the Tidewater Timber company.

Decision as to operations has not been reached, pending reports on the engineering and logging possibilities. However, it is believed that the Tidewater Timber company either will start logging the timber or contract the logging in the near future.

Officers of the Tidewater Timber company are: Henry S. Lovejoy, of Jaynesville, Wis., president; Major Watson Eastman, Portland, vice-president, John H. Smith, of the Western Cooperage company, secretary, and C. H. Davis Jr., treasurer.

John W. Blodgett, of Grand Rapids, Mich., president of the National Lumber Manufacturers' association and owner of extensive timber in Oregon, participated to the negotiations leading up to the forming of the Tidewater Timber company.

LOCAL CHINESE DAILY PRINTING ENGLISH SECTION

Chung Hua Times Also Starts Chinese Woman's Page

A woman's page and an English language section are two innovations in Chinese journalism which have just been introduced by the Chung Hua Times, local daily which was founded in 1915 and distinguished itself by leading the attack on Yuan Shih-k'ai's monarchical aspirations.

The woman's department of the newspaper is being handled by a Chinese woman, a fact in itself extraordinary in Chinese journalism, and the English section is being edited by Mr. Francis Zia, whose abilities are well-known to readers of THE CHINA PRESS. In the initial English section number Mr. Zia makes an eloquent appeal to English-speaking Chinese to take advantage of their ability and the opportunities it brings for working in a constructive way for China's development and reunification.

Cycles In Cathay Not So Uneventful As The Poet Declared

The peregrinations of a $40 bicycle occupied the attention of and provided considerable amusement for the Mixed Court yesterday.

According to the tale unfolded the bike was hired by a Chinese youth, one Fei Zu-kau, on January 1 from a shop on Honan Road. The youth took the machine to Avenue Edward VII. Here he met an obliging gentleman who, after watching Fei's amateurish efforts, offered to teach him scientific riding. Fei acquiesced, the stranger mounted and from that day until last Sunday the whereabouts of the bicycle were a mystery so far as Fei and the shopkeeper were concerned. On Sunday, however, one of the employes of the bicycle shop recognised the machine on the street and had its rider arrested. The prisoner said he had just borrowed the bike from a chauffeur who lived next door to him. The chauffeur, when located, said that he had secured the machine from a brass smith after the brass smith's shop had burned down, destroying another bicycle which the brass smith was keeping for him. He had to pay $9 to boot, as the new bike was a better one than the burned one. The brass smith told the police that he had secured the bicycle from a Post Office coolie and the Post Office coolie said he had bought it from a stranger who assured him that it was not stolen. He had paid $7.

The court ruled that the original hirer, Fei Zu-kau, might have the bicycle on paying $7 to the chauffeur owner—the youth having had previously to compensate the shopkeeper to the extent of $30 for the loss.

W. S. FLEMING APOLOGIZES FOR CONTEMPT IN U. S. COURT

Formal Motion And Retraction Of Charges Offered Jurist

NO ACTION TAKEN

Judge Lobingier Points Out Case Now Is In Higher Court

William S. Fleming who for the past year has been fighting through the higher American courts to escape the penalty of a prison sentence of six months imposed by Judge C. S. Lobingier, in the United States Court for China, appeared yesterday afternoon before Judge Lobingier and offered a formal motion and retraction, apologising to the court for a statement that led to the contempt proceedings and asking that this statement be withdrawn from the court records.

Mr. Fleming presented his petition orally in the presence of a gathering, composed largely of American attorneys, that filled the court room. After Mr. Fleming had concluded his statement Judge Lobingier declared that he himself felt no personal animosity toward Mr. Fleming and that no element of personal resentment entered into the matter.

MUST AWAIT MANDATE

"The case is now before a higher tribunal," Judge Lobingier added, however, "and, therefore, is out of our jurisdiction and beyond our power to control in any way."

Judge Lobingier then ordered that Mr. Fleming's motion and retraction be deposited in the files of the case and said that any further action must await the receipt of the mandate from the Court of Appeals.

The contempt sentence that was imposed upon Mr. Fleming developed in the course of a hearing before Judge Lobingier in which Mr. Fleming was answering a charge of criminal libel, filed on complaint of Mr. Stirling Fessenden. It was when this hearing was in its preliminary stages that Mr. Fleming arose and read an affidavit upon which summary contempt proceedings were based.

In this affidavit Mr. Fleming not only made grave charges against various officers of the United States Court for China, but also he charged that the judge of the Court had been a party to offenses of Earl B. Rose, who was at that time under charges of embezzlement. He alleged further that the judge of the court was involved in a conspiracy against him.

STARTS LONG FIGHT

After Mr. Fleming was adjudged guilty of contempt and the penalty of six months' imprisonment was imposed he was taken into custody immediately and served eleven days' imprisonment in the American jail here. He was released at the end of this period on bail in the sum of Gold $2,000 after being granted privilege to appeal from the sentence to the Ninth District Court of Appeals in California. When this court some months later denied Mr. Fleming's appeal he then carried the case to the United States Supreme Court from which, it is expected, a ruling will issue some time in October.

Some time prior to the date of the contempt of court proceedings Mr. Fleming had filed charges against Judge Lobingier with the State Department at Washington, D. C. When he was released early in August of last year Mr. Fleming went to Washington in connection with these charges which occasioned suspension of activities of the U. S. Court for China and absence from Shanghai of Judge Lobingier for nearly a year. As an outcome of protracted hearings at Washington Judge Lobingier was completely exonerated in a formal ruling given by President Harding and in a personal letter to Judge Lobingier from President Harding.

MR. FLEMING'S MOTION

The text of the motion and retraction that Mr. Fleming

precented yesterday is as follows:

"I, William S. Fleming, respondent in the above entitled action, respectfully appearing before the Court for the sole purpose, do hereby express my deep regret for having filed and read in open court on July 28, 1921, the petition, motion, application and affidavit for a change of venue in Cause No. 1431 for which I was convicted of contempt in this and the Appellate Court.

"I retract all statements made therein and apologise for having made and filed them, particularly the statements that the Judge of this court was a party to the crimes of Earl B. Rose or to the prosecution of myself or that he conspired with others to defame and injure me.

"I acknowledge that the language used in said petition motion application and affidavit was improper and disrespectful, I humbly ask the court's pardon for having used it and I undertake never to repeat such unbecoming expressions.

"I further ask leave of the Court to withdraw from its files the said petition, motion, application and affidavit that the same may be destroyed and held for naught.

"(Sgd.) Wm. S. Fleming."

2 MONTH TERM GIVEN IN FALSE PRETENSES CASE

Grimble Sentenced In "Precious Stones" Action

Sentence of two months' imprisonment was imposed by Magistrate G. W. King of the British Police Court yesterday upon Joseph Grimble, charged with obtaining money under false pretenses from Mr. A. C. Akehurst and Mr. W. E. Souter. Grimble sold Mr. Akehurst for $100 two glass stones which he claimed were alexandrites given him by Mr. Porter, the British Consul at Vladivostok. He secured $40 from Mr. Souter by representing himself to be a Dr. Walker, of the National Bible Society of Scotland. The sentences were one month in each case, to run concurrently.

Grimble pleaded that he did not know that the stones he offered Mr. Akehurst were not genuine alexandrites, or else he would not have sold them as such. On the second charge he asked for the clemency of the Court, stating that he had been ill with influenza.

The Magistrate said that the accused had to show him that he acted as an ordinary man and had no intention to deceive. Grimble said he did not wish to drag Mr. Porter into this case.

The prosecuting inspector mentioned that the accused had been under the notice of the police since 1907, and had had two previous convictions for false pretences. The accused modified it by saying that he was convicted only once in Shanghai in 1918, but in 1907 in Ningpo.

Grimble justified what he had done this time by pointing out to the Magistrate that he had been watched too closely by the police who did not give him a fair chance. "What is a man to do under the circumstances? I could not hold on to a job long, and was obliged to get money by false pretences."

The Magistrate replied that there were excellent charitable institutions in Shanghai and no white man should starve. If he accepted the plea of the accused that he was pressed to commit this crime he would have to accept similar ones from other accused. There was no excuse for having done what he did.

The court informed Mr. Akehurst that he could sue the defendant civilly for return of the money.

Candle Company Sues Chinese For Using False Labels

Two Chinese shop assistants and a salesman appeared before Assessor Blackburn and Magistrate Kwan in the Mixed Court yesterday charged with receiving and disposing of false labels of the Price (China), Ltd., company.

Detective Sergeant Conduit outlined the case, stating that on receipt of word that their candle labels were being wrongfully used on inferior goods in Soochow they sent an investigator to that city and traced the false labels to the Nantao Bund here. The investigator was able to purchase a number of the labels, which were introduced as evidence, and on information gleaned the three men were arrested. The court remanded the case for one week.

Ralph S. Boyd Acquitted Of Swindling Charge

to pay, and did pay to said Ralph S. Boyd the sum of thirty thousand Taels (Tls. 30,000.00), the personal property of said Provincial Mint of Hunan Province."

It appears from the evidence that two days after the date above mentioned, viz. February 16, 1922, the complaining witness, in behalf of the Hunan Provincial Mint, and the defendant, in behalf of R. S. Boyd and Co., entered into a contract by which it was agreed that the latter "will sell to the Hunan Provincial Mint and the Hunan Provincial Mint agree to buy from R. S. Boyd and Co. Ltd., 20,000 piculs of cooper ingots" etc. The price fixed was Tls. 29.10 or a total of Tls. 582,000. Paragraph 6 provided as follows:

"After the contract has been been signed the buyers will deposit Tls. 30,000 (one week approved bank order R. S. B.) with the seller which shall be retained to apply against the last shipments."

This sum of Tls. 30,000 (about 5 percent of the total contract price) was paid on the day following the signing of the contract and was in the form of a native bank payable to defendant's company and was deposited, he says, to its order and drawn out from time to time on its checks. It is this sum which defendant is accused of having obtained under false pretences.

It will be seen that the information contains two distinct charges, (1) that defendant made false representations and (2) that the complaining witness acted thereon in paying over the money. As regards the first, the specific charge is that defendant represented that he and his company "had 20,000 piculs of copper ingots belonging to him and said R. S. Boyd and Co., Ltd., and which were then and there stored in a godown or warehouse in the city of Shanghai and ready for immediate shipment and delivery."

The only support for this charge is the testimony of Mr. T. C. Yu who says that on the night of February 16 when the contract was signed he acted as interpreter for the complaining witness and

"A—I asked Mr. Boyd, 'Do you have this copper'?

Q—What then?

A—He said, 'Yes, I have spot goods' means stock goods, ready and I asked him again, 'How much you have?' and he said '20,000 piculs.'

Q—Did he say where he had it?

A—Yes, I ask him where it is, he said in Warehouse in Yangtszepoo godown. He says this, I have told General Chang before, that is the reason I can sell cheap because in the first place I own it. 20,000 piculs. He says, it is ready for shipment, I will ship it as contracted for at a stipulated time."

But another Chinese witness (Wong Zu-koh) testifies:

A—I remember one or two days after signing the contract.

Q—General Chang spoke to Mr Tsao in Chinese

A—He said "where will your company get the copper?"

Q—Did Mr. Tsao make any reply to that?

A—Mr. Tsao laughed at him. He says "That is our business" and he put me outside? He did not want to pay me a commission."

But surely General Chang would not have asked such a question if he had already been informed and believed that defendant or his company owned the copper.

Defendant when examined as to the occasion referred to by Mr. Yu testified:

"Q—Did you state at any time during this conversation that you owned this copper?

A—No.

Q—Are you quite sure of that?

A—Absolutely sure.

Q—Were you asked at any time whether you owned the copper?

A—We were never asked.

Q—Was there anything to indicate that the plaintiff here and his representatives expected that you owned this copper?

A—Absolutely nothing at all.

Q—What really was the nature of this transaction that you were handling?

A—In what way do you mean?

Q—Were you selling your own goods or some one else's goods? What was the transaction?

A—It was a case where we were buying the goods in the market here and selling to other people, not acting exactly as brokers but very similar to it, protecting ourselves by not telling who the brokers were; we were practically acting as brokers.

Q—Did they ask you whether the copper was ready for shipment?

A—They asked me if we could make shipment of the first lot by the 22nd.

Q—Did they at that time request the 20,000 piculs at once?

A—No, not more than 5,000 piculs at one time.

Q—Did you have 5,000 piculs which were ready for shipment?

A—Yes." (p. 15).

The contract itself seems to corroborate defendant in this. It is not, as we have seen, a contract of sale in presenti, as would naturally have been the case had it been framed on the assumption that defendant already owned the copper. Instead he merely undertakes that he "will sell" and the complaining witness "agrees to buy." Again, readiness for "immediate shipment and delivery" is not required but on the contrary defendant is given nearly a week for the first delivery and more than five weeks for the last. That present ownership is not contemplated seems also implied from the clause (4) providing damages "should the seller not be able to deliver." Finally it seems highly improbable on its face that defendant should represent his company or himself as actually owning nearly Tls. 600,000 worth of copper.

In view of these considerations we are disposed to believe that Mr. Yu misunderstood defendant and that the latter did not really claim to own the copper. But if he did such representation would seem to be excluded by the terms of the following provision:

"That upon a trial for having, by any false pretense, obtained the signature of any person to any written instrument, or obtained from any person any valuable thing, no evidence can be admitted of a false pretense expressed orally and unaccompanied by a false token or writing; but such pretense, or some note or memorandum thereof, must be in writing, and either subscribed by or in the handwriting of the defendant."

The inspiration of this statute was evidently the belief that one's conviction of this offense ought not to be based upon frail memory alone. Defendant invoked its benefits and objected to the evidence of Mr. Yu which, under the terms of the statute could not be made the basis of a finding.

Defendant admits (p. 14) having stated that "we had spot goods in Shanghai" and claims to have based the statement upon an option for the entire amount of copper reported to him as early as February 16 by his Chinese co-director Mr. Tsao. He gives the name of the dealer furnishing the option and produces a sample said to have been secured from him. The co-director seems not to have been in Shanghai at the time of the trial, but a relative of his testified:

"Mr. Tsao told me that the copper he could get from one Chinese big firm Dong Cheo Kee. He told me that Mr. Boyd could get copper from him."

Defendant says that he believed his co-director and relied upon this option. He was not required to go farther and prove that Tsao's report was true.

"Since there can be no intent to obtain the property by means of the false pretense unless accused knows the pretense to be untrue, such knowledge on his part is essential to the commission of the crime. If accused believes in the truth of the representation made, although it may be false, the offense is not committed."

But as the prosecution had the dealer's name it was provided with the means of testing the reality of the option.

There is considerable testimony as to alleged misstatements by defendant after the contract had been signed and the money paid. But even if these were found to be established they would be insufficient.

"For the reason that the pretense must be effective cause in inducing the owner to part with his property, there can be no conviction based upon a pretense made after the property was obtained."

In the second part of the information it is charged, as we have seen, that the complaining witness believed "said false pretenses and representations and thereby was induced" to pay over the money. It was essential not only to allege but to prove this averment, for

"It is not sufficient that there is a false pretense; the owner of the property must rely on it; the pretense must be an effective cause in inducing the owner to part with his property."

Now the one who would know if he were so induced was the complaining witness himself. But he is silent on the subject. He testifies regarding not only the interview described by Mr. Yu but also several prior interviews and he not only does not claim to have been induced by the representations charged in the information but he does not even mention such representations.

There is, moreover, other testimony regarding these prior interviews when the terms of the contract were really agreed upon. For at the date of signing, February 16, the contract had already been drafted and Mr. Yu's principa function seems to have been to compare the Chinese and English versions. Unnaturally then the terms of the contract and the inducements to enter it must have been discussed at the prior interviews. The Chinese witnesses for the defense testify regarding these interviews but neither of them mentions representations like those charged and one of them testifies:

"The first time Chang and I met Tsao and Boyd we asked him the price and Mr. Tsao and Boyd said 'let me tell you tomorrow. Let me get price from market.'

Q—Did Mr. Boyd ever state he owned the copper?

A—I never heard that."

It seems clear then that the second element of the charge is wholly unsupported.

There is conflict in the evidence regarding the non-delivery of the copper, defendant claiming that it was due to the purchaser's failure to provide proper permits for transportation from Hankow to Changsha. But it would be profitless to go into this. If it were true that defendant perpetrated frauds after receiving the money it would afford no ground for convicting him of obtaining it under false pretences. The latter, as we have seen, must have been made before delivery.

On the whole we feel satisfied that the Court of Appeals would not sustain a conviction upon this evidence and we have no alternative but to acquit the defendant with costs de officio.

It is so ordered.

By the Court,
CHARLES S. LOUNSTEIN.

FOR REMOVING SUPERFLUOUS HAIR.

No woman who has any sense of beauty will deny that superfluous hair is one of the greatest drawbacks to good looks.

Realising this, women of all times have put themselves to any expense, and have endured considerable pain and discomfort in order to rid themselves of this great disfigurement.

Nowadays electrolysis is a prevalent "cure" for this evil, but in reality this process involves a great deal of unnecessary expense, waste of time and pain.

The simplest quickest, and most effective treatment can easily be carried out by any sufferer, in the privacy of her home. This is the recipe:

Procure about 1 oz. powdered pheminol from your chemist; mix a sufficient quantity with a few drops of water into a stiff paste. Apply this carefully and thoroughly to the hair you wish to remove, and allow the paste to dry. In a few minutes it can be gently scraped away. The skin is left absolutely free from hair, and should then be carefully washed in warm water, and if desired, lightly dusted with a little talcum powder. (Advt.)

"My wife objects to life insurance."

"THAT is rather unusual. Women are the best friends of life insurance, because the protection and guarantee of their happiness and welfare that it affords prompts men to turn to life insurance. Your wife may object because of her unselfishness, but when she hears the whole story and sees that the insurance benefits you as well, probably she will not object.

"LOTS of women object to life insurance for the simple reason that they hate to face the situation of getting along by themselves. But is that any reason why you shouldn't face it?

"BECAUSE your wife is willing to risk leaving your family in distress, you are not justified in doing so."

Support Dr. Sun Yat-sen And Marshal Tuan, Says Little Hsu To Wu Pei-fu

Epistle From Anfu General To Chihli Leader Maintains That Both Are Patriots And Should Be Given Highest Executive Posts

Maintaining that the only real leaders in China are Marshal Tuan Chi-jui and Dr. Sun Yat-sen, General Hsu Shu-tseng, popularly known as Little Hsu, has addressed a lengthy letter to General Wu Pei-fu, the Chihli leader, in response to certain overtures made recently by the latter. Little Hsu contends that the two leaders should be given the highest executive positions of the nation, while he believes that the other militarists and politicians are merely fit for "material for the genuine heroes to be ordered about."

A translation of the letter follows:

LETTER TO GENERAL WU

"My relative, Mr. Hsia Chung-tao, has written me from Peking to inform me that General Chang Shao-tseng, acting on your behalf, wishes to convey to me your greetings and your desire to co-operate with me in working for the reunification of the country. It is stated that you had asserted that in order to unify the country, the North and South must each unify itself; and that the union among the Northern interests cannot be effected unless an understanding is reached with me. Therefore Mr. Hsia was asked to interview me personally and to secure my views.

"Whether this idea actually originated from you or not, I cannot judge arbitrarily. But General Chang had, on previous occasions, acted as your agent and formulated plans on your behalf. Whatever he says cannot be regarded as entirely groundless. So I beg to offer the following statement in reply.

"Like a person with many diseases, China's national life is flickering between life and death. The only remedy for her today is unification. But it should be a genuine union between all elements and not a superficial union in which the North and the South remain divided in spirit, which condition can only hasten the day of destruction.

QUOTES LINCOLN

"It was a wise proverb that said 'United we stand, divided we fall.'

"I would like to refer you to some other worthy men to advise you on the question of unification of the Northern factions, but I have certain definite views on the question of national re-unification.

"The unification of China today must be sought through the amalgamation of the really powerful leaders, who must act in harmony hereafter. Only few of the leaders in China deserve any consideration. One is Marshal Tuan Chi-jui. The other is Dr. Sun Yat-sen. Both are honest patriots, loyal to their own ideals and faithful to whatever they say. They never abandon their principles for want of support.

NO OTHER LEADER

"As to the rest of the leaders in China, their virtues cannot benefit the multitude; their power is unable to subjugate their enemies while their faith is insufficient to insure the execution of their own promises. They may exercise an enormous amount of power within their own sphere of influence and head armies of millions of troops. But they merely serve as material for the genuine heroes to be ordered about.

"For your benefit, it will be advisable to support these two elderlies for the nation's highest executive posts. With them at the rudder, the ship of state will sail on a peaceful sea. Then, if you can gather together the technical experts of the day to fill the various administrative offices and govern the country in accordance with the suggestions set forth in my recent book on National Reconstruction with, perhaps, certain modifications, I am sure the general public will be benefited and the spirit of the people will be solidified while the national status will be elevated.

UNION IMPERATIVE

"If you cannot unify the nation, now can you unify the Northern factions. Neither the North nor the South can stand alone if they merely attempt to unite themselves and leave the general question of unification unsolved. This is no time for the North or the South to have any rival feelings between each other. I trust you will keep this foremost in your mind.

"Only those who have definite plans and views may shoulder heavy responsibilities. When you wish to do something, you must refrain from doing certain things. If you wish to be sincere to me you better be sincere to the world. To depute people to see me is not so good as to sit down and meditate over the political situation. All what I wished to say has been said in my book.

WU NO EXECUTIVE

"I recall that before the year 1917, I regarded you as a fighting general. But I dared not to consider you as an able administrator. I further asserted that you would be left in the lurch some day. I could have gone further and explain my assertions, but I did not think it necessary.

"The public today is short-sighted. Because of your military triumph, it admires you and is dazzled by your accomplishments. But if you yourself consider your own position, I am sure you feel that you have been left in the lurch. Whether you need any explanation for my former assertions or not I dare not venture, but gathering from the words of General Chang Shao-tseng, and considering your position, there must be something which is difficult for you to disclose.

"However, we have known each other for some considerable time. I cannot absolute lose interest in you. So from the bottom of my heart, I offer you the suggestions contained in my book, which I hope you will not ignore, but will carry out faithfully and energetically. This done, the suffering of the great multitude will be relieved and the predicament that had embarrassed you will be eliminated."

TORRID PERIOD NOW IS BROKEN TSINGTAU HOPES

The torrid spell at Tsingtau has broken, according to reports from vacationists who anticipate delightful weather conditions for the next two months. London Worried By New "Yellow Peril"

(Reuter's Service)

London, September 4.—Lively scenes occurred at a meeting of the Actors' Association yesterday when a number of its members disobeyed the Chairman's ruling and insisted on discussing the employment of Chinese supers in the theatrical production, "East of Suez."

Replying to an urgency resolution, deploring the employment of foreigners while British actors are starving, the Secretary of the Association affirmed that the Chinese received full trade union rates and that the producers had undertaken to employ an exclusively British cast in the event of the play going to the provinces.

Widespread attention has been attracted by the dispute and it has inspired several newspaper leading articles, which humorously discuss the "Yellow Peril."

IS YOUR BABY GAINING IN WEIGHT?

One of the surest signs that a baby is making good progress is steady increase in weight. After the first week there should be regular and rapid growth if the baby is being properly nourished.

The most common cause of failure to gain weight is malnutrition. the food is either deficient in quality or quantity, or the digestive organs are not doing their work properly. When the stomach or bowels are at fault all that is necessary to set matters right is the administration of Baby's Own Tablets, the pleasant-tasting Canadian remedy for little ones of all ages. No fear need be entertained as to the wisdom of giving these Tablets, because they are guaranteed, under a Government Analyst's certificate, to contain not a single particle of opiate, narcotic, or other injurious drug, and to be equally helpful and harmless to the youngest infant as to the child of 8 years old or more.

Baby's Own Tablets are just the right remedy for infantile constipation, colic, indigestion, diarrhoea, simple fever, teething troubles and worms. They bring natural, restful health-promoting sleep, restore appetite and make the baby thrive. Alexander H. Ford Here To Interest Chinese In Pacific Commercial Confab

American, Chinese and Korean delegates were gathered together to smooth over the differences.

Mr. Ford further emphasised the importance of having commercial colleges represented at the conference, because, he said, a movement is being inaugurated to exchange professors as well as students and it is probable that certain definite action will be taken in this regard at the conference. He concluded by extending an invitation to the Rotary Club of Shanghai to send its representative to the conference, since a large delegation is coming to it to make preliminary arrangements for a Pan-Pacific Rotarian Conference in the near future.

MR. MOH SPEAKS

Mr. Moh expressed his warm gratitude to Mr. Ford for the interest he had taken in Pacific countries especially China and asserted that the commercial unification of the Pacific countries was more beneficial than a political alliance. Because, Mr. Moh explained, political ententes last only when the diplomats could agree, while the commercial unification lasts permanently.

However, Mr. Moh pointed out that on account of the language difficulties, it was not possible for the important businessmen to attend the conference, but he expected that a very representative delegation would attend. Turning to the Chinese guests present, he asked their assistance in securing a big deputation to help him, because, he admitted, he would be helpless if the inquisitive American or Japanese delegate put him through a "quiz" on banking and other questions foreign to his own trade, which is cotton.

Before introducing Mr. Arnold, the chairman expressed his regret that he would be unable to go himself on account of the Red Cross Conference at Bankok. Mr. Yang is Director-General of the Chinese Red Cross Society.

Mr. Arnold said that he used to be very skeptical about conferences. He thought they were merely opportunities for a lot of hot air to get loose. But when he began to make occasional visits to America, he commenced to realise the value of these gatherings. He found in small towns, where commercial relations were comparatively unimportant, an interest in all things Chinese. It was surprising to see the amount of enthusiasm shown the Chinese visitor and the amount of work being done to educate the town on Chinese questions. He urged that a large delegation be sent to Honolulu in October.

The committee of the Pan-Pacific Association has arranged another tiffin for Mr. Ford this noon at the Union Club.

ALL'S WELL IF YOU ARE SINCERE, SUN WIRES WARLORDS

Says Danger Will Be Averted If Militaristts Are Honest In Words

Asserting that all dangers of the Republic will be averted if the militarists are sincere in their clamor for reunification and disbandment, Dr. Sun Yat-sen has sent a telegram to Generals Tsao Kun and Wu Pei-fu, the Chihli leaders, in response to messages sent recently to the Southern leader.

The text of Dr. Sun's message is as follows:

"I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your telegram. I am glad to learn that you have awakened to the situation and that your consideration for the interests and welfare of the nation has inclined you to observe an attitude of humiliation. The message has been read several times and I am favorably impressed by it. The fact that you have at last approved of the Constitutionalist cause, in defence of which we have worked for several years, has not only made myself rejoice but also called forth the appreciation of the whole country.

"I hold, as I set forth in my manifesto, that if the authorities are honest and straight-forward and will leave everything to be settled according to law instead of being misled by a few sinister political intriguers, the complex state of affairs will automatically be readjusted and the country will be set in order.

DISBANDMENT EASY

"The proposal to convert troops into labor corps, I firmly believe, is the only means by which the nation may be saved. The whole country is clamoring for the reduction of troops. If however, the means to that end is not satisfactory, more harm than good will result. It is very simple to convert troops into labor corps. In fact, if this be decided upon in the morning, it may be carried out smoothly in the evening. As regards the details of the scheme, I shall be pleased to offer my humble advice, which I hope may prove practical and beneficial.

"It is true that people should lay aside their differences. It appears to me, however, that the trouble with many is not because they have differences. The root of all evils lies in their fraudulent and hypocritical habits. Some are anxious to patronise their protegees. Others are bent on exploiting some high sounding theories in the interests of personal gain. No doubt the political intriguers are condemned and outlawed by the people. But the militarists are easily tempted to usurp power and to exercise undue influence. You, who deplore the suffering of the people and lament the national crises, should 'wash the shame' heaped upon the militarists owing to their own misconduct.

"If we are sincere in dealing with one another and work hard for the country, what national danger can we not avert? The time is critical and the situation grave. I reply to your message with a fervent prayer."

CHIHLI OVERTURE

The telegram sent by the Chihli leaders reads as follows:

"We have had the pleasure of reading your manifesto and appreciate your comprehensive views. In 1911, after you founded the Republic, you retired from the political stage. The whole world lauded your noble action. In connection with the Constitutionalist cause, you have labored persistently and faithfully for several years. Now that your purpose is fulfilled, you are anxious only to put things on the right track but do not seek self-interest. Your inspiring virtues furnish good models for the people throughout the nation.

"Your view of self-government as a government of the people, for the people and by the people as shared in common by all. And everybody must appreciate your frank denunciation of the militarists, attempting to carve China up into a number of petty principalities. Your scheme to convert the troops into labor corps with a view to developing national industry is, of course, a necessary step towards national reconstruction.

SEEKS CO-OPERATION

"In view of the many crises confronting the country and the difficulty of the people to maintain their livelihood, we earnestly hope that the heroes of the nation will lay aside their differences and co-operate in working for national salvation. If you will condescend to favor us with your esteemed instructions every now and then, the happiness will not be ours alone for having an experienced man like you to solve the national problems. We turn our heads to the Shun Kiang (Shanghai) and while we despatch this telegram, our mind fly to you."

Lt. F. W. Snape Wins Out After Three Stages For British .303 Rifle Shoot

Consistent Marksmanship Gives 323 Total After Three Day Stages

The Shanghai British .303 Rifle Championship of the S.R.A. was shot on Monday at 6.30 a.m. The weather conditions were fine for shooting: a good light and steady wind. After firing at the 900 yards, Ito topped the list with 72, next came Sauer with 71 and Hughes 70. In adding these scores with those combined at the 1st and 2nd stages Ito took the lead with 261, followed by Snape 258.

At the 1,000 yards Lancaster topped the list with a fine score of 71 points, next came Reeves with 69 and Snape 65. Ito who was leading after firing the 900 yards fell at the 1,000 yards and made only 56.

The result was that Snape maintained his first position and won the honor with a record score of 323 points (out of possible score 350). Ito also was 2nd with 317, Sauer and Lancaster with 315 each, the latter lost in the shoot off.

C. M. Sequeira and D. W. Kan, both new shots, deserve great credit for their shooting through the three stages. C. M. Sequeira was a "D" Class shot in the S.R.A. last meeting. He was promoted to "C" class for his success in the meeting, and was transferred to "B" class after winning the "C" class cup in July and is now promoted to "A1" class for his fine performance in the Championship. Mr. C. Kajean and Mr. D. K. Wan are also promoted to "A1" class for shooting through the final stage.

Peking Marines Beat Shanghai In First Of Six Game Series, 5-0

Hitless Local Players Are Unable To Pile Up A Score; Errors Count

The Peking Marines, the champions of North China, won out in their first game against the local nine yesterday afternoon by a little bit of hitting, and a little bit of luck in the way of breaks and errors. Maloney hurled a good game allowing but six hits, but with only three singles behind him and two or more errors to counteract he was not on an easy winning road. McClaire worked well, fanning eight local players, and his support was fair, though not up to the high standard expected of the visitors. The final score was Peking 5, Shanghai 0. A first glance at the two teams in action would leave the impression that Shanghai has at least a fifty-fifty chance at the title for China.

The Marines got a start in the scoring in the first inning when Howland at second let one through his legs and the run tallied on a succeeding single. Both sides went scoreless from then on until the final seventh when the visitors rapped out three singles, which coupled with three nice sacrifices brought the score up to 5-0. Thatch booted Thomas' bingle in the seventh. Knauf advanced Thomas to second on a single over second. Hiltebrand and Crowder bunted the runners along another station, scoring Thomas. McClaire went safe while Knauf was being thrown out at the plate. Gorman's sacrifice fly to right and Donovan's single over Maloney and Kelly's hit to left field completed the damage to Shanghai.

Shanghai was off its hitting yesterday. The whole story lies in that fact. Not one hit in the whole game went for an extra base. The local side got a man past first in the second inning on a passed ball but the runner died at the middle station. In the third Bills reached third on a single to right and Kelly's fumble of the ball after two were out but he was left there. Bills reached second again in the sixth on a walk and Holliday's sacrifice, but he got no further. No other local player promised to score.

The teams play again tomorrow. John Scott will probably pitch

Varying Stories Cause Dismissal Of Assault Charge

An assault charge brought by an Indian policeman against a watchman named Harwan Singh was dismissed by Magistrate G. W. King in the British Police Court yesterday owing to the extremely conflicting testimony.

The complainant declared that he was directing ricsha traffic on Astor Road when the defendant came along and asked him if the ricsha coolies were his fathers. Complainant made a suitable retort, whereupon the defendant seized him by the turban, tore his hair and, with the assistance of two Chinese chauffeurs from the Great Northern Garage, pushed him down and rendered him unconscious.

The defendant declared that complainant came to the garage, where the witness was employed, and demanded the return of money loaned. On his complaining that his wife and child were sick and that he was unable to make repayment this month, he stated, the policeman beat him with his truncheon.

In dismissing the charge the court was inclined to hold that the oral evidence was against the complainant.

Chinese Postal Report Bares Interesting Facts

(Chung Mei Service)

Peking, August 31.—How the Chinese postal system caters to its 436,094,953 citizens is very interestingly told in the figures and explanation given out by the Chinese Post Office in its annual report for 1921 with which is combined a historical survey of the quarter century.

During last year there were 442,116,358 articles of mail posted, which means slightly more than one article for each inhabitant of the country. Of this Shanghai locally posted 96,494,164, while Peking came next with some 20,221,982 pieces.

GREAT INCREASE

A table showing the great increase in the service from 1905 to 1920 is given below:

Year	Mail Matter Posted millions	Post Offices	Courier Lines Li
1905	3	1,626	20,000
1910	99	5,357	121,000
1915	210	8,510	410.000
1920	400	10,469	475,000

In connection with the above statistics the figures for the mail handled in 1870 stand out in sharp contrast. They were 171,041 articles. By 1890 this had increased to 858,879 which was still pitifully small as compared with the 400 odd millions taken care of last year.

There is much romance in the way the mails are transported over the great stretches of China. Couriers are constantly traveling over the half million li of postal routes and their methods are of the greatest variety. Way off in Chinese Turkestan four wheel wagons drawn by horses carry the sacks while in Shensi mule litters and bullock carts transport the heavy mails. In Manchuria sledges skim over the ice to get letters to their destinations, while the Kalgan Urga route uses camel trains.

CROSSES YANGTSZE BY CABLE

The methods of getting across rivers where there are no bridges is another novelty of the postal system. In Szechuan fast boats are pulled through the Gorges and to cross the Yangtsze at some places it is necessary for the carrier to pull himself across a cable hand over hand with the pouch strapped to his back. Across the Yellow River in Shensi a square raft made of buffalo skin takes the courier and his bag.

Just to be different a perfectly round tub is paddled by one man while the post man stands up in the middle—that is the way that Anhwei handles postal traffic over certain streams. Over the Gobi desert pony trains run so that the mails travel continuously day and night.

Added to these methods there is the most modern system in the world of conveying postal matter and that is by airplane. Last year an aerial route was established between the Capital and Tsinanfu in Shantung. The other mechanical transportation employed is motor trucks of which there are twenty-eight now in active service.

MAKE UP OF FOREIGN STAFF

The Foreign Staff at the end of the year 1921 consisted of 23 Commissioners, 16 Deputy Commissioners (of whom eight were acting as Commissioners), 70 Assistants (one of whom was acting as Commissioner and 14 as Deputy Commissioners) one Service Buildings Surveyor, one Proof Reader, three Postal Officers and one Transport Officer.

Revenues for 1921 show an increase of about 23 percent over those for 1920 while working expenses show an increase of 32 percent. At the close of the year there were 35,459 places provided with postal facilities.

It is generally admitted that the Chinese postal system is one of the best in the world and great credit is due to the men who are struggling to make it even better. It can at least lay claim to being the oldest mail carrier in the world, dating its beginning from the Chou dynasty (1122-255 BC).

Senator Accuses French Troops Of Rhine Atrocities

(China Press Service)

Paris, Sept. 3.—According to Washington reports, United States Senator Gilbert N. Hitchcock of Nebraska has launched an attack on the French by bringing to the notice of the Senate crimes alleged to have been committed by the French negro troops now occupying Germany.

He declared that the United States was in duty bound to suggest to France that the replacement of the blacks by white troops was an imperative need if French prestige was to be preserved.

The Senator sharply criticised the inactivity of the United States while France, as he declared, is trying to crush the German republic by reparation demands which everybody knows cannot possibly be paid at present.

He pointed out that as the United States still is taking part in the occupation of the Rhine the nation was in a position and in duty bound to protest at stationing half-civilised black troops among a white population where the black troops acted as conquerors and committed crimes without let or hindrance.

Mr. Fleming's Retraction

IN July of last year Mr. W. S. Fleming of the local American bar presented and read at a session of the United States Court a statement reflecting upon its Judge and other officers and upon other lawyers. Yesterday Mr. Fleming presented and read in open court another statement retracting all that he had previously said and humbly asking the court's pardon for having said it.

This action appears to have been entirely voluntary on Mr. Fleming's part. The Judge's remarks after the retraction was read make it clear that the latter can have no effect on the contempt case which has passed out of his hands and is before another court. The retraction must therefore be wholly unconditional and shows that Mr. Fleming has at last come to the realization that the only thing left for him to do is to acknowledge that he is and has been in the wrong and to do so as publicly as he launched the original attack.

All good citizens will be glad that this step has been taken. The pity is that it could not have been taken long ago. But then it is a pity that the offensive statements were ever made. It is merely a case of "better late than never."

For the Judge, and the others whom Mr. Fleming attacked, this rivets the last link in the chain of their vindication. The proceedings of yesterday illustrate the time honored maxim that "all things come to those who wait." The poise, patience and dignity with which Judge Lobingier has mastered the situation of the past eighteen months have won general admiration. The Judge has recently enjoyed the rare distinction of being vindicated by the President of the United States. Now he has the still more novel experience of a vindication by his own accuser.

Copies of the executive order issued by President Harding dismissing the charges together with a letter that was addressed to Judge Lobingier by President Harding were received by Mr. Stirling Fessenden on July 17 and were printed in THE CHINA PRESS of July 18. These are as follows:

Dismissing the charges preferred by W. S. Fleming against the judge of the United States Court for China.

A full investigation of the charges preferred by W. S. Fleming against the Judge of the United States Court for China having been made are determined to be unfounded and are, therefor, dismissed.

The judge of the court is hereby directed to return to his post of official duty at the earliest practicable moment.

(signed) Warren G. Harding.

The White House, June 23, 1922.

EXECUTIVE ORDER

The White House, Washington, June 23, 1922.

My dear Judge Lobingier:

I am enclosing herewith a copy of the Executive Order which disposes of the charges preferred against you as Judge of the United States Court for China. The record of the conclusion is filed with the Department of Justice. I trust you will make the earlist possible arrangements for your return to your post of duty and resume the sessions of the court. I should not be satisfied in sending you this notice if I did not say that in investigating the matter I have invited the fullest co-operation of the Department of Justice and the decision is in accord with the views of that Department as I think to be becoming in view of its participation in the investigation.

I wish for you a safe return, and a record of progress in the courts which will cure as far as possible the delay incident to the filling of charges and the inevitable delay in reaching the decision which the enclosing Order conveys.

Very truly yours, (signed) Warren G. Harding.

Hon. Charles S. Lobingier 1001 New Hampshire Avenue, Washington, D. C.

Anglo-U.S. Friendship Is Best Hope Of Future

Signs Point Fair Weather Ahead, Says Sir Philip Gibbs

BY SIR PHILIP GIBBS

London, July 15.—Whether people like it or not, and some, I suppose, do not, it is undeniable that a new close, solid friendship is growing apace between the United States and Great Britain. This is based, if my observations are sound, on more than sentimental platitudes delivered at banquets on more even than the stronger sentiment which exists and always will exist between Americans of old British stock and what was once to them the mother country. Americans not of British stock—with some exceptions no doubt in large groups of foreign strains not yet amalgamated—are friendly and sympathetic to British folk while not abating by any jot their own American outlook.

All signs point to fair weather ahead between our two English speaking peoples, due a good deal to the Washington conference, at which we co-operated successfully for the peace of the world by a general acknowledgement on both sides of the Atlantic that on broad issues apart from minor conflicting interests, our trend of thought, our desire for the future of the world and our way of looking at things was very similar.

I think the praise for this drawing together must go very largely to men of my own profession, well known journalists, men of letters of America and Britain who have done honor to the press, with certain lamentable exceptions, by their friendly interpretation and generous idealism. The click of their typewriters has been good music to those who are sick to death of the cheap sneers, the raucous shouts of the hundred per cent patriots who can see no good in any country but their own.

AIDS FRIENDSHIP

One cause of the increasing friendliness, and the best, is increasing knowledge. England has been favored by the presence of many distinguished Americans—Taft was one of those most recently on this side—and they have done much in private intercourse and public speech to enable the English speaking to understand American character and thought. Bankers and business men of all kinds have lately visited England; most of them had an opportunity of putting forward American views very clearly without reservation.

One cannot go to any important dinner party without meeting Americans of standing who generally give the attitude of the United States as far as they know it to world affairs and what they say spreads in groups and circles and has its effect. Also magazines and periodicals of the United States, which have fairly invaded England, are read each week by clerks and shop girls, middle class folk as we call them, so life in the United States, humor, adventure social customs are no longer unfamiliar.

Sinclair Lewis recently declared that American fiction does not interest British readers, but the plain truth is that English writers feel a little hipped because so many American stories appear in the popular magazines on this side and the book-stalls are crowded with American novels, not so solid as "Main Street" of the sentimental type, but such as they are American in background and character. All that is good, because it breaks down the barrier of ignorance and creates a sense of intimacy with the smaller ways of life without which no two peoples can really have friendship.

HARVEY AN INFLUENCE

In a political way, not in the narrow sense of the word but in the larger aspect, the American Ambassador to London, George Harvey, is quite a powerful influence in creating social good will and understanding. He has certainly made a success of his job, which must be surprising to many of his critics. I cannot pretend to be ignorant of the violent objections raised at Harvey's appointment in certain American circles, and without having met the man was strongly prejudiced against his personality, his methods of journalism, his type of mind, as they were interpreted to me by distinguished Americans who feared he would "let down" the reputation of the United States and humiliating failure at the Court of St. James's.

Everything I hear, however, seems to show that the American Ambassador in London has won a good deal of confidence and is very generally liked by all who come in contact with him. He has won his position in spite of his early speeches, which raised the hair on some English heads, or, if they hadn't any hair, gave a drafty sensation to their scalps. They were aggressively American, being hostile not in intention but in fact to the sensibilities of quite a number of good friends of America and seemed to bar the way to any prospect of American co-operation in Europe.

Since then Harvey has mellowed. He loves America no less, but he likes Europe more and understands England with what I should say is a pretty shrewd though friendly judgment. I think his ideals have broadened; he is out for the peace of the world, reconstruction of the nations, not in a visionary way, but by means of common sense, facing up to facts, getting hostile views to agree on compromise and arbitration.

WON PLACE IN LONDON

What has won him his place in London, and it is a difficult job to fill, is I believe his great sense of humor, his straightforward simplicity of approach. He does not wrap himself round with portentous dignity and solemnity, but is apt to break down portentousness in others.

I saw him preside at a dinner party to which I had the honor of an invitation, which was quite a test of tact. Around the table in the dining room at the American Embassy were crowded an enormously distinguished and varied company, representing, I should say, the most violent contrasts in thought and policy of English society. I sat next to a diehard Duke, and on the other side of Harvey was the German Ambassador, and all around the table were men of famous names in politics, science and public life.

There was informal discussion of Russia, Germany and the attitude of the United States to world problems. Not an easy company to handle nor subjects without extreme differences of opinion, but Harvey, in an admirable way, led the discussion, made comments and in a perfectly easy way drew out the best thought among the guests. Few men would have been so good, so humorous, so much at ease. He is not helped by his presence, for he was not born beautiful. His face has positive peculiarities which I find fascinating. But, illumined with comicality of expression, he is curiously attractive, and he tells American stories with a drawl that gives their full flavor.

AMERICAN HOSTESSES

Lady Astor, "our Nancy," as I understand she was called in the United States, a great ambassadress without official credentials but one of the best friends of America who ever came to England; one of the best friends of England who ever went to America. Her house in St. James's square is Liberty Hall, where one may always be sure of meeting a mixed crowd of Americans and English who get to know each other partly because the hostess puts them together with introductions so gay and gracious that there is no resisting a friendly chat.

Lady Astor plays her part in English life with a splendid prodigality of energy, wit, laughter and idealism. Though American she reminds me of one of Shakespeare's ladies, like Beatrice as we may imagine her after her marriage with Benedick, quick and nimble of wit, but very womanly.

Another American hostess who is gathering great companies of the two nations at her house is Mrs Glasgow, whose reception the other night was one of the big things of the London season.

All that may seem no better than society gossip in a world full of tragedy and unemployment, stagnant trade and potentialities of new wars and race hatreds. But in a way it is important and influential. It helps create good feeling, leads to an exchange of ideas. It would, of course, be more important if people of the poorer classes could get together in the same way to exchange ideas, but that can only be done through the press. It is being done more than ever before, as I have pointed out and, if no reaction, no new poison, is distilled by evil chance or evil minds the English speaking peoples of the world should be established in such security and good will that they at least may put aside all possibility of enmity and so liberate an act of co-operation for world peace.

That is the great chance of the future. Without indulging pessimism, one must admit there are still signs of anarchy and strife in Europe and elsewhere which are rather disconcerting to one's hopes. Germany has not yet decided what road she shall take. Anarchy there would check all progress. Russia has not solved the riddle. It will need great wisdom, sure guidance, close fellowship on the part of the most stable nations of the world to avert new disasters to the human family. Together Britain and the United States and the free English speaking dominions would form a like belt aroung the world for the preservation of peace, and things even better than peace which are in the code of decent law abiding life.

London, After Waiting 2,000 Years, Has A Real City Hall

BY H. E. SCARBOROUGH

London.—One of the first concerns of a budding municipality is usually the erection of a city hall or town hall, or something of the sort. London has managed to get along without one for a matter of 2,000 years or so, but the omission has been remedied. On the south bank of the Thames, almost opposite the Houses of Parliament, a gleaming white marble structure now advertises to all and sundry that London's municipal government will henceforth be found in a home worthy of the overlords of 7,000,000 people. Recently this building was officially declared open by the King.

The business of governing London is a complex and wonderful affair. Down in the Mansion House, in the very heart of the old City, there lives that imposing personage, the Lord Mayor of London. But (whisper it) all his array of gold lace and state coaches cannot alter the fact that he is Lord Mayor only of some 13,000 souls: these people, mostly caretakers, watchmen and porters, who live within the geographical limits of the original City of London. The King of England must ask his permission before passing Temple Bar—the western limit of the City; but should the King wish to complain of the poor condition of the Buckingham Palace sidewalks he would address himself to the Mayor of Westminster. Although the average citizen would be hard put to define the boundaries of the City of Westminster, it is a fact that this slice out of the West End of London is a city all to itself.

Further out there are boroughs—Paddington, St. Marylebone, Poplar, to name only a few. These surround the two ancient cities for miles in every direction. Beyond them the endless streets of little brick two-story detached houses are under the sway of urban district councils.

All of these bodies have their own rights and are jealous of them. They have their own fire departments, their own electric lighting systems (usually with ordinary lighting current supplied at varying voltages, so that an electric fan which works in Paddington is useless in Hampstead). They maintain their separate street cleaning systems. They impose their own taxes. In two directions only does the government of England infringe on them, postal and police services, which, of course, covers the whole Metropolitan area and which are responsible to government departments.

Not so very long ago, however, they lost still more of their ancient prerogatives. The London County Council came into being with the result that in certain departments of communal life it acquired power over the County of London, which comprises all of the cities and boroughs but by no means all the semi-rural authorities. There are some 4,500,000 people in administrative London, as against 7,500,000 in greater London.

For a long time the offices of the council were scattered all over downtown London. Thirty years ago, when the council took over the Metropolitan Board of Works (that generation's attempt at standardisation), it decreed that it should be adequately housed. By 1905 it had agreed upon a site. In 1908 it accepted a design submitted by Ralph Knott, an engineer who then was in his twenties and who was virtually unkown even in his profession.

In 1912 the King laid the foundation stone of the London City Council building and work was begun on its construction. At that time it showed merely as an unsightly heap of debris among the surrounding slums of Lambeth. In January, 1914, a strike in the building trades delayed the work. Six months later the outbreak of the war slowed down the work still more, but it was not until February, 1916, when the fifth floor had been reached that all private building ceased in Great Britain.

From that time until 1919 so much of the structure as was habitable served as a home for certain departments of the Ministry of Food. When the workmen again got to work on the building it was in an era of soaring costs of material and labor. Progress was slow; and finally it was decided to finish the building for the present, without the south wing. Hence the edifice, which today towers brilliantly white above the muddy Thames and the dingy tenements, presents a curiously lopsided appearance.

Compared with the Gothic Houses of Parliament on the north bank of the river, the London County Hall is simple, even severe, in design. Londoners are asking themselves whether the regeneration of the south bank of the Thames—occupied by factories and docks wherever a place can be found—will be carried out along the same lines.

How To Understand An Eclipse

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

Eminent Astronomer and Authority on Subjects of Scientific Interest.

"To settle an argument kindly state the relative positions of the earth, moon and sun when there is an eclipse of the sun visible from the earth."

This question has a personal interest for me in the fact that it convincingly shows how inadequate is the instruction gathered not only in the common, but in the higher schools, and even the technical colleges and the universities themselves concerning the simplest rotations of the earth to the sun, the moon and other bodies in space around it.

It encourages me to believe that my own humble efforts to increase popular knowledge and appreciation of astronomy, in an untechnical way, are not destitute of usefulness.

It would seem that a question like the one above must arise from a failure to make use of the "scientific imagination," which means, in this case, only picturing in the mind, under the guidance of ordinary, common sense experience, the geometric relations of the three separate globes, called the earth, the moon and the sun, when the moon revolves around the earth in a small orbit, while the earth carrying the moon with it, revolves around the sun in a large orbit, and both orbits lie in very nearly the same plane.

The one peculiar circumstance to be kept in mind is that of the three bodies—only one, the sun, shines by its own light. The earth and the moon are both opaque, non-luminous bodies. We see the moon only because it reflects to our eyes the light received from the sun, just as if we were on the moon we should see the earth by means of the sunlight reflected from its surface (in fact, we see this very light by a second reflection when, at the time of "crescent" moon, that part of the lunar surface not then reached by the sunlight glows faintly in the light reflected from the earth).

Now, what is an eclipse of the sun? It is nothing more or less than the hiding of the self-luminous globe of the sun behind the opaque, non-luminous body of the moon. That simple fact in itself answers the correspondent's question, for manifestly the relative positions of the earth, moon and sun, when the sun is eclipsed as viewed from the earth, must be such that the three bodies are arranged, for the time being, in a straight line with the sun at one end of the line, the earth at the other end and the moon between them. If the moon were not between the earth and the sun, the sun could not possibly be eclipsed by the moon as seen from the earth.

Let your head be the earth, let your fist be the moon and let an electric lamp be the sun. In moving your fist around your head let it come between your eye and the lamp. The lamp will be eclipsed by your fist exactly as the sun is eclipsed, from time to time, by the moon. The relative positions of head, fist and lamp are just the same as those of earth, moon and sun during a solar eclipse.

If the moon were much smaller than it is, or if it were much farther away from the earth, it would not thus hide the sun when it comes exactly between the earth and the solar globe, but would be seen as a black circle moving over the face of the sun. This is what occasionally occurs with the planets Venus and Mercury, which being nearer to the sun than the earth is, at times get exactly in line with the sun, and then are to be seen moving slowly across the solar disk. But these planets, although they are much larger than the moon, are also so very much farther away from us that they appear relatively no larger on the sun's face than a peppercorn on a dinner plate.

Their passages over the sun are not called eclipses, but transits, though in fact they are partial eclipses, the light of the small portion of the solar disk that they cover being eclipsed or cut off from our eyes.

In the other kind of eclipse—the lunar eclipse, for it is the moon that is then hidden instead of the sun—the relative positions of the three bodies are: The sun at one end of the line, the moon at the other and the earth between them. What happens in a lunar eclipse is that the earth comes between the moon and the sun and cuts off the sunlight from the moon.

In other words, the moon is in the shadow of the earth. This is quite a different phenomenon from the other, because now no solid opaque body is seen from the earth hiding the eclipsed body, but only a shadow covers the latter. And, because the atmosphere surrounding the earth refracts the sunlight around its edges and bends a portion of it inwards toward the center of the shadow, the moon does not totally disappear, but is seen during the eclipse, faintly and partially, through the shadow, usually exhibiting a more or less reddish tint.

If, however, such an eclipse could be viewed from the other end of the line, i.e., from the moon, the body of the earth would be seen covering the sun as the moon covers it in a solar eclipse.

Secrets Of The Pastry Shop Window

BY MOLLIE GOLD

Cookies have a definite place in the young folks' world; grown-ups, too, are not above raiding the cooky jar when the opportunity presents itself. Making attractive cookies is not as much trouble as most people seem to think.

One good foundation recipe can be used to make any number of different kinds of drop cooky. When the mixture is in the bowl ready to drop and the baking sheets are out and waiting you are limited only by your own imagination and the preferences of your family. Drop a dozen or more plain cookies on the baking tin and decorate with a half shelled walnut, chopped black walnuts or a few peanut meats. Next take part of the batter out into another bowl. To this mixture add raisins or cocoanut and drop a dozen of that kind.

To what is left in the first bowl add melted chocolate or divide that mixture in half and add spice to one part of it and chocolate to the other. That makes four or five kinds of cookies from one batter without any more time or trouble that it takes to make one good layer cake all iced and filled ready to eat.

ROLLED COOKIES

Rolled cookies, which are supposed to take so much time, can be made very simply and easily if the work is planned ahead. The dough for the wafers is improved by chilling, so make the dough one day and put it in the icebox until ready to roll. Make only a few dozen at a time and bake them when something else is in the oven. If the dough is thoroughly chilled it takes very little flour to roll them out and they are less apt to stick to the board or table. The cookie is much more tender when it doesn't take up flour in the rolling out process. There is, of course, less opportunity for variety in one batch of plain rolled cookies than in dropped ones. The plain rolled cookies can be brushed over with egg white and sprinkled with sugar and chopped nuts to make them different, or they can be cut in fancy shapes.

MOLASSES COOKIES

Molasses or thin spice wafer dough can be kept on hand for a week or more and baked whenever the opportunity presents itself. A very popular shape with children is the pussy-cat with eyes made of bleached Sultana raisin cut in half and whiskers made of shredded cocoanut. Haunt the five and ten cent stores for cookie cutters of fanciful shapes. The children will appreciate the animals and fish and flower forms.

Two rolled or dropped cookies make an adequate dessert for a child and are much less likely to tax the digestion than a piece of layer cake. With fresh or cooked fruit or simple gelatines cookies make a very acceptable dessert after any meal.

The recipes given here are for rolled molasses wafers, plain rolled cookies, which can be changed by sprinkling nuts and sugar on top before they are baked, and plain drop cooky batter, which can be made into anything the family prefers in the way of fruit or nut cookies.

MOLASSES WAFERS

2¾ cupfuls flour
1 teaspoonful soda
1 teaspoonful salt
2 teaspoonfuls ginger
4 tablespoonfuls fat (any kind)
1 tablespoonful hot water
1 cupful molasses.

Mix and sift all the dry ingredients. Melt the fat by adding the hot water and then add the molasses. Stir the liquid into the dry ingredients. Mix thoroughly. Chill. (This mixture will keep for a week or more.) Roll out very thin and bake in a moderate oven about ten minutes. If rolled very thin this recipe yields about eighty cookies.

PLAIN ROLLED COOKIES

2½ cupfuls flour
2 teaspoonfuls baking powder
½ teaspoonful vanilla extract
½ teaspoonful nutmeg
½ cupful fat
1 cupful white sugar
2 eggs
1 tablespoonful milk.

Cream the butter and sugar, add the eggs, and then the milk and flavoring extract. Mix and sift the dry ingredients, add to the other mixture, knead slightly and chill. This mixture rolls better if chilled over night.

Vary the plain cookies by brushing some of them over with egg white and sprinkling with sugar and chopped nuts before baking.

DROP SPICE COOKIES

½ cupful fat
1 cupful brown sugar
¾ cupful molasses
2 eggs
1 cupful sour milk
3 cupfuls flour
2 teaspoonfuls soda
½ teaspoonful salt
1 teaspoonful cloves
1 teaspoonful ginger
1 teaspoonful allspice.

Cream the butter and sugar and add the molasses and beaten eggs. Mix and sift the dry materials and then add a little of the dry ingredients to the first mixture. Add a little of the milk, and continue adding the dry materials and the milk until all are used up. Mix thoroughly and then drop from a teaspoon on to a buttered pan. Drop them far enough apart to give them a little room to spread without running together. Bake in a hot oven about ten minutes.

PLAIN DROP COOKIES

½ cupful fat
1 cup white sugar
2 eggs
2½ cupfuls flour
2 teaspoonfuls baking powder
1 teaspoonful vanilla extract
¾ cupful milk

Cream the fat and the sugar and add the eggs and milk. Mix and sift the dry ingredients, add vanilla and bake spice drop cookies.

CASTORIA
for Infants and Children.
Don't Poison Baby.

FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have paregoric or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and a few drops too many will produce the sleep from which there is no waking. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labeling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrups," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given to your children without you or your physician knowing of what it is composed. Castoria does not contain narcotics.

"I find your Castoria is very beneficial in the treatment of children's ailments."
F. DAVIS, M. D., Chicago, Ill.

"I object to what are called patent medicines, where the maker alone knows what stuff is put in them, but I know the formula of your Castoria and advise its use in proper cases. I judge it to be a very useful, as well as harmless family medicine."

French Airmen In Rotterdam Given Wreath Of Laurel

Peking Mandate Prohibits Lotteries

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Sept. 3.—Mandates were issued last night to proclaim the prohibition of lotteries throughout China, to appoint General Tsai Cheng-hsun with tuli rank in charge of military affairs in Kiangsi and to appoint as commissioners for opium suppression, Admiral Sah Chen-ping for Fukien and Anhui, Mr. Li Kai-hsien for Shensi and Hupeh, Mr. Sun Tao-jen for Kansu and Chinese Turkestan and Mr. Chong Tao-yuan for Suaiyaun.

Peking, Sept. 1.—The Ministry of Commerce has received a telegram from the Educational Institutions of Kiangsu saying that the prize bonds issued by that province are in reality lotteries and asking the Ministry to have the issue of such bonds prohibited. The matter has been referred to the Ministry of the Interior.

Sir Beilby Alston To South America

(Reuter's Service)

London, September 3.—The Foreign Office has sanctioned an exchange of posts between Sir Beilby Alston at Peking and Mr. J. W. R. Macleay at Buenos Aires. It is hoped that the milder Argentine climate will restore Sir Beilby Alston's health.

Ill health continuing after an enforced vacation of three months is given as the cause for Sir Beilby's seeking a milder climate than that of Peking. His successor is well known in China where he was counselor to the Legation from 1914 for several years.

Mr. James William Ronald Macleay entered the diplomatic service in 1894 at the age of 24. He served in many embassies and the Foreign Office, being also the British Representative to the Brussels conference on the unification of commercial statistics.

U. S. Surprised By Newcastle Action

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, September 2.—The Government is not convinced of the misconduct of its Consular representatives at Newcastle and will not reopen the Consulate until a proper investigation is made.

A wish has been expressed at the White House that Americans would interest themselves more in the American marine. This is regarded as indicating a tendency on the part of officials to approve rather than disapprove the action of the Newcastle consuls.

Officials of the State Department are surprised at the cancellation of exequaturs as the British Foreign Office has been requested to defer action pending an investigation.

Envoy To Belgium To Act At League

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Sept. 1.—Owing to Dr. Wang Chung-huai's inability to attend the meeting of the Commission for the amendment of the League of Nations Covenant, to be held early in September at Geneva, Mr. Wang Ching-chi Chinese Minister in Belgium, has been appointed Chinese representative.

The Waichiaopu on August 28 held a meeting to discuss relief measures for Chinese in Russia. The meeting was attended by several members of the staff of the Waichiaopu and of the Emigration Bureau.

Exchange Fluctuations

Asia Banking Corporation

September 4, 1922

Spot and Forward Bar silver were each up 1/16d in London on Saturday. The New York prices advanced to 69⅞ cents and the London-New York cross rate to 447⅜.

The only changes of importance in our official rates here today were a rise in the Gold Dollars rate to 77½, a drop in the Yen rate to 62¼, in the Rupee rate to 264½ and in the Franc rate to 925.

Our market here today was firm and in fact became very strong during the course of the afternoon, speculators being keen sellers. In the morning business in Sterling was done at 3s. 5⅞d. for September, 3s. 5½d. October, and 3s. 6d. November-December. Gold Dollars were done at 78 September, 78⅛ October and 78¼ for forward delivery.

At the Tiffin interval there were buyers of Sterling at 3s. 6d. for forward delivery and of Gold Dollars at 78⅜. However, in the afternoon the market firmed up considerably and closed with sellers of Sterling at 3s. 6d. for September delivery, 3s. 6⅛d. October and probably 3s. 6⅛d. for forward.

There were sellers of Gold Dollars at the close at 78¼ for September-October delivery and 78⅝ forward. Yen were offered at the close at 61 for forward delivery with buyers at probably 60⅞.

A fair amount of business was done in Franc T.T. at 1,000 for forward deliveries but at the close there were probably sellers at 1,005. Banks were quoting 1,030 for Franc Bills. 3s. 6⅜d. for Sterling Bills and 79¾ for Gold Dollar Bills. China bought silver in London on Saturday and the market there is reported as steady, as is also the New York market.
